2. Transfer Procedure and Animal's Condition

2.1. On the date of transfer, the Breeder transfers the Animal along with its veterinary passport, available registration/breeding documents, and recommendations for feeding, care, and adaptation.

2.2. The Breeder informs the Owner of all known information regarding the Animal's health status on the date of transfer, including completed vaccinations, treatments, examinations, and any known peculiarities. The absence of detected clinical signs of illness on the date of transfer does not guarantee the absence of diseases that cannot be diagnosed without special examinations or that may manifest at a later time.

2.3. The Owner has the right, within 7 (seven) calendar days from the date of actual handover, to have the Animal clinically examined at a veterinary clinic at their expense and to send the Breeder a written notification with a veterinary report if a pre-existing condition is identified. Such circumstances do not include diseases, injuries, or other conditions arising from transportation, stress, changes in living conditions, feeding, contact with other animals, or other actions/inactions after the handover.

2.4. If the veterinary report indicates a pre-existing condition, the Parties have the right to agree on the return of the Animal, replacement with an animal of equivalent value, or another method of resolution. Expenses for examinations, diagnostics, and transportation are borne by the party responsible for them as determined by law or a separate agreement between the Parties.

2.5. From the moment of the actual handover of the Animal, the Owner assumes full responsibility for its upkeep, veterinary care, feeding, safety, and compliance with all applicable legal requirements. In accordance with Article 9 of Federal Law No. 498-FZ of December 27, 2018, “On Responsible Treatment of Animals,” its owner is responsible for the animal's upkeep, welfare, and safety.

2.6. The Animal must be kept in a humane manner, provided with food, water, safe living conditions, proper care, and veterinary assistance. Keeping in a permanently enclosed cage without objective necessity, uncontrolled outdoor access, cruelty, and any procedures prohibited by law are strictly forbidden.

2.7. Declawing (onychectomy) and other interventions not medically necessary and which violate humane treatment principles are strictly prohibited. Veterinary operations must be performed by a veterinary specialist using appropriate pain relief and in strict adherence to veterinary standards.

3. Conditions for Breeding Use

3.1. The Animal is transferred with breeding rights. Breeding suitability is assessed based on the Animal's condition, its pedigree, documents, examination results, and the requirements of the applicable felinological system or club.

3.2. The Breeder does not guarantee the Animal's future breeding performance, show results, the number or quality of offspring, fertility, or the absence of diseases that may emerge or become apparent after the handover and were not known to the Breeder at the time of transfer.

3.3. The Owner agrees to use the Animal responsibly for breeding purposes, to prevent matings that could jeopardize the health of any animals, and to comply with age, veterinary, and all mandatory requirements. Matings are prohibited before the Animal reaches 10 months of age, unless a later age is stipulated by veterinary recommendations or the specific rules of the club/felinological system.

3.4. For breeding a Maine Coon Animal, only a partner of the appropriate breed may be used, unless explicitly agreed upon in writing with the Breeder beforehand and compliant with the requirements of the club/felinological system.

3.5. The Owner must inform the Breeder of any discovered hereditary or congenital diseases, significant defects, reproductive problems, and other circumstances pertinent to breeding, should such circumstances become known to them.

3.6. When featuring photographs and information about the Animal online, on social media, in print media, catalogs, and at exhibitions, the Owner must state the Animal's full official registered name, including the cattery prefix «Katrin Style», exactly as registered. Photographs must not be used in a way that creates a false impression of the Animal's lineage or ownership.

3.7. The Owner provides the Breeder, upon their reasonable request, with information regarding the health, reproductive results, and significant changes in the Animal's living conditions, as necessary for breeding support.

3.8. The transfer of animals or offspring from the Animal for breeding purposes is not permitted to countries, regions, or individuals for whom such transfer is prohibited by law, by club/felinological system rules, or by a separate written agreement between the Parties. Specific territorial restrictions, if agreed upon by the Parties, are set out in the section on individual additional conditions for the breeding animal.

4. Price, Reservation, and Transfer of Ownership

4.1. The full price of the Animal is _____.

4.2. Upon reserving the Animal, the Owner pays a reservation amount of _____. Purpose of payment: reservation of the Animal towards its price. The reservation amount shall be credited toward the purchase price of the Animal and does not constitute a deposit (задаток) within the meaning of Articles 380–381 of the Civil Code of the Russian Federation. The reservation amount shall be refundable only in the cases expressly provided for by this Agreement or by applicable law; if the Owner withdraws from the transaction in the absence of any breach by the Breeder, the amount shall be returned less the Breeder's documented expenses incurred in connection with the reservation.

4.3. Until full payment is made, the Animal remains the property of the Breeder, unless otherwise explicitly stipulated by this Agreement. Upon full payment and signing of the Acceptance and Transfer Certificate, ownership of the Animal transfers to the Owner. If the Parties have separately agreed to retain ownership until a specific event occurs, such a condition shall be formulated in a written supplementary agreement.

4.4. The transfer of the Animal is carried out under an Acceptance and Transfer Certificate. The Certificate records the date of transfer, the appearance, the set of documents, the condition of the Animal, and the presence/absence of any remarks from the Owner.

4.5. The transportation of the Animal and related expenses are paid by the Owner, unless otherwise agreed upon in writing. Risks arising from the transportation method or carrier chosen by the Owner after the Animal has been handed over to the carrier are borne by the Owner, except where otherwise stipulated by law.

4.6. If, prior to transfer, due to the Breeder's fault, the Animal cannot be transferred in the agreed-upon status, the Parties shall agree on a replacement, the transfer of the amount paid to another Animal, or a refund of the funds paid.

4.7. The method of payment (cash upon transfer, bank transfer, or other lawful means) shall be agreed upon separately by the Parties; bank details are not included in this Agreement. Proof of payment is a note acknowledging receipt of funds in the Acceptance and Transfer Certificate, signed by the Breeder, or any other document confirming the transfer of funds.

4.8. The Breeder is an individual and does not engage in entrepreneurial activity involving the sale of animals. The Parties proceed from the understanding that the general provisions of civil law regarding purchase and sale apply to this Agreement.

5. Alienation of the Animal and the Breeder's Pre-emptive Right

5.1. The Owner is not entitled to transfer the Animal to a pet shop, market, organization reselling animals, laboratory, shelter, or by any other method that contradicts the Animal's purpose or legal requirements.

5.2. If intending to transfer the Animal to a third party, the Owner undertakes to first notify the Breeder in writing and, if permitted by law, provide information about the prospective new owner with their consent for such information transfer. The Breeder shall have a pre-emptive right to purchase the Animal on the terms of the proposed transaction. Within 10 (ten) calendar days from receipt of the notice, the Breeder shall inform the Owner in writing of the intention to exercise this right and, within 30 (thirty) calendar days thereafter, accept the Animal and settle the payment. If no reply is received within that period, or the Breeder declines, the pre-emptive right shall be deemed unexercised with respect to that particular transaction, and the Owner may transfer the Animal to the person named in the notice on terms no more favourable than those offered to the Breeder. The pre-emptive right applies to both transfers for consideration and gratuitous transfers, except for transfers to the Owner's spouse or close relatives and temporary placements for care.

5.3. If the Parties have agreed to a buy-back by the Breeder at a special price, it shall be: for an unneutered/unspayed Animal — 30% of the original purchase price, for a neutered/spayed Animal — 20%, unless otherwise stipulated by an additional agreement. This condition is applied as a mutually agreed-upon term for a potential buy-back and does not exclude mandatory legal requirements.

5.4. Upon transferring the Animal to a new owner, the Owner is obligated to provide them with veterinary and other relevant documents, and to inform them of the obligations associated with the Animal. The Owner is not entitled to transfer the Animal by methods expressly prohibited by legislation or this Agreement.

6. Responsibility of the Parties and Termination

6.1. For breach of contractual obligations, the defaulting Party shall be liable in accordance with the legislation of the Russian Federation and this Agreement.

6.2. For breach of the obligations expressly established in this Agreement regarding non-breeding, prohibition of unauthorized transfer, or breeding restrictions, the Parties are entitled to establish a contractual penalty in the amount of _____ rubles for each proven instance of violation, if permitted by law. The amount of the penalty may be reduced by the court in cases and procedures provided for by Article 333 of the Civil Code of the Russian Federation.

6.3. In the event of improper keeping, cruel treatment, leaving the Animal without necessary care, or the emergence of a threat to its life and health, the Parties undertake first and foremost to take measures for the immediate cessation of the dangerous situation. The Breeder shall have the right to demand that the Animal be transferred voluntarily to the Breeder or to another person agreed upon by the Parties. Should the Owner refuse, such transfer shall be effected solely in the manner provided by the legislation of the Russian Federation; no self-help repossession of the Animal is permitted.

6.4. The condition regarding the return of the Animal does not imply the Owner's automatic waiver of monetary or other claims that may be granted to them by mandatory legal provisions. Similarly, the Breeder does not waive claims for damages as provided by law.

6.5. The death, illness, injury, theft, loss of the Animal, or alteration of its appearance after transfer do not in themselves constitute grounds for the return of the paid price, unless the corresponding circumstances are caused by a breach of the Breeder's obligations or other grounds provided by law.

7. Final Provisions

7.1. The Parties undertake, whenever possible, to resolve disputes through negotiations and the exchange of written notices. Should an agreement not be reached, the dispute shall be resolved in the manner established by the legislation of the Russian Federation. Conditions regarding territorial jurisdiction shall apply only to the extent permitted by law.

7.2. Should consumer protection laws apply to the relationship between the Parties, the provisions of this Agreement shall not limit the consumer's rights granted by imperative legal norms.

7.3. Correspondence via email and messengers may be used as proof of negotiations and notifications, provided that the sender and the content of the message can be reliably established. Any changes to the material terms of the Agreement must be made in writing and signed by both Parties.

7.4. The invalidity of a single provision of the Agreement shall not entail the invalidity of the remaining provisions, unless otherwise provided by law.

7.5. This Agreement is drawn up in two copies, each having equal legal force, one for each Party. The Agreement comes into force upon signing, and ownership transfers in accordance with the section on price and transfer of ownership.

7.6. The Parties confirm that prior to signing the Agreement, they have familiarized themselves with its terms, had the opportunity to ask questions, understand the content of their rights and obligations, and sign the Agreement voluntarily.

9. International transfer and export of the animal

9.1. The Breeder is an individual residing in the Russian Federation. The substantive law of the Russian Federation applies to the Agreement; this does not limit the imperative norms of the legislation of the Owner's country, which cannot be altered by agreement of the parties.

9.2. The Owner independently verifies and fulfills the destination country's requirements for animal import: microchipping, rabies vaccination and, if required, antibody titration, veterinary certificate, import permit, quarantine. Related duties, carrier fees, and processing expenses are borne by the Owner, unless otherwise agreed in writing.

9.3. The Breeder provides the veterinary passport, vaccination and microchip details, and arranges for veterinary documents obtained in the country of export. The Breeder is not responsible for the decisions of the authorities in the destination country.
