2. Procedure for Transfer and Condition of the Animal

2.1. On the date of transfer, the Breeder shall transfer the Animal along with its veterinary passport, existing registration/breeding documents, and recommendations for feeding, care, and adaptation.

2.2. The Breeder informs the Owner of all known information regarding the Animal's health status, vaccinations performed, treatments, examinations, and known peculiarities as of the transfer date. The absence of detected clinical signs of illness on the transfer date does not guarantee the absence of diseases that cannot be diagnosed without special examinations or that may manifest later.

2.3. The Owner has the right, within 7 (seven) calendar days from the actual transfer date, to arrange, at their own expense, a clinical examination of the Animal at a veterinary clinic and to send the Breeder a written notification with a veterinary conclusion if a condition existing prior to the transfer is detected. Diseases, injuries, and other conditions arising from transport, stress, changes in housing conditions, feeding, contact with other animals, or other actions/inactions after the transfer are not considered such circumstances.

2.4. If the veterinary conclusion indicates a condition that existed prior to the transfer, the Parties may agree on the return of the Animal, its replacement with an equivalent animal, or another method of settlement. Costs for examinations, diagnostics, and transportation shall be borne by the party responsible for them in accordance with the law or a separate agreement between the Parties.

2.5. From the moment of actual transfer of the Animal, the Owner assumes responsibility for its care, veterinary services, feeding, safety, and compliance with mandatory legal requirements. In accordance with Article 9 of Federal Law No. 498-FZ of December 27, 2018, 'On Responsible Treatment of Animals,' the owner bears the responsibility for the animal's maintenance, welfare, and safety.

2.6. The Animal must be kept humanely, provided with food, water, safe conditions, proper care, and veterinary assistance. Keeping an animal in a constantly closed cage without objective necessity, free uncontrolled roaming, cruel treatment, as well as any procedures prohibited by law, are not permitted.

2.7. Declawing (onychectomy) and other interventions not necessitated by medical indications and violating humane treatment requirements are not permitted. Veterinary operations must be performed by a veterinary specialist using necessary pain relief and in compliance with veterinary requirements.

3. Conditions for Keeping the Pet

3.1. The Animal is transferred solely as a pet, without the right to use the Animal for breeding, to produce offspring, or to register the Animal as a breeding animal.

3.2. At the time of transfer, the Animal is neutered/spayed. Information about the operation and the confirming veterinary document are indicated in the Animal's record. The Owner shall not undertake or permit any procedure intended to restore the Animal's reproductive function and shall not use the Animal for breeding or reproduction.

3.3. The pedigree, if transferred, is provided in accordance with the rules of the club/feline registry system and the payment terms established by this Agreement. These documents do not alter the Animal's designation as a pet without breeding rights.

3.4. The Owner undertakes to keep the Animal safely within residential premises, to prevent free uncontrolled roaming, and to comply with veterinary and sanitary requirements.

4. Cost, Reservation, and Transfer of Ownership

4.1. The full cost of the Animal is _____.

4.2. Upon reserving the Animal, the Owner pays a reservation amount of _____. Purpose of payment: reservation of the Animal towards its price. The reservation amount shall be credited toward the purchase price of the Animal and does not constitute a deposit (задаток) within the meaning of Articles 380–381 of the Civil Code of the Russian Federation. The reservation amount shall be refundable only in the cases expressly provided for by this Agreement or by applicable law; if the Owner withdraws from the transaction in the absence of any breach by the Breeder, the amount shall be returned less the Breeder's documented expenses incurred in connection with the reservation.

4.3. Until full payment, the Animal remains the property of the Breeder, unless otherwise expressly stipulated by this Agreement. Upon full payment and signing of the Acceptance and Transfer Certificate, ownership of the Animal transfers to the Owner. If the Parties have separately agreed to retain ownership until a specific circumstance occurs, such a condition shall be formulated in a written supplementary agreement.

4.4. The Animal is transferred under an Acceptance and Transfer Certificate. The Certificate records the transfer date, appearance, set of documents, condition of the Animal, and the absence/presence of remarks from the Owner.

4.5. Transportation of the Animal and related expenses are paid by the Owner, unless otherwise agreed in writing. Risks arising from the transportation method or carrier chosen by the Owner after the Animal is handed over to the carrier shall be borne by the Owner, except where otherwise provided by law.

4.6. If, prior to transfer, due to the fault of the Breeder, the Animal cannot be transferred in the agreed status, the Parties shall agree on a replacement, transfer of the sum to another Animal, or a refund of the paid funds.

4.7. The method of payment (cash upon transfer, bank transfer, or other legal means) shall be additionally agreed upon by the Parties; bank details are not included in the Agreement. Confirmation of payment is a note on the receipt of funds in the Acceptance and Transfer Certificate, signed by the Breeder, or another document confirming the transfer of funds.

4.8. The Breeder is a natural person and does not engage in entrepreneurial activity for the sale of animals. The Parties proceed from the understanding that the general provisions of civil law regarding sale and purchase apply to the Agreement.

5. Alienation of the Animal and the Breeder's Pre-emptive Right

5.1. The Owner is not entitled to transfer the Animal to a pet shop, market, organization engaged in the resale of animals, laboratory, shelter, or by any other means that contradicts the Animal's intended purpose or legal requirements.

5.2. If intending to alienate the Animal to a third party, the Owner undertakes to first notify the Breeder in writing and, if permitted by law, provide information about the prospective new owner with their consent to the transfer of such information. The Breeder shall have a pre-emptive right to purchase the Animal on the terms of the proposed transaction. Within 10 (ten) calendar days from receipt of the notice, the Breeder shall inform the Owner in writing of the intention to exercise this right and, within 30 (thirty) calendar days thereafter, accept the Animal and settle the payment. If no reply is received within that period, or the Breeder declines, the pre-emptive right shall be deemed unexercised with respect to that particular transaction, and the Owner may transfer the Animal to the person named in the notice on terms no more favourable than those offered to the Breeder. The pre-emptive right applies to both transfers for consideration and gratuitous transfers, except for transfers to the Owner's spouse or close relatives and temporary placements for care.

5.3. If the Parties have agreed to a buy-back by the Breeder at a special price, it shall be: for an unneutered/unspayed Animal — 30% of the original purchase price, for a neutered/spayed Animal — 20%, unless otherwise stipulated by a supplementary agreement. This condition applies as a mutually agreed term for a possible buy-back and does not exclude mandatory legal requirements.

5.4. Upon the transfer of the Animal to a new owner, the Owner is obligated to provide them with all veterinary and other necessary documents, and to inform them of all responsibilities and obligations associated with the Animal. The Owner is not permitted to transfer ownership of the Animal through means expressly forbidden by legislation or this Agreement.

6. Responsibilities of the Parties and Termination of Agreement

6.1. In the event of a breach of contractual obligations, the defaulting Party shall bear responsibility in accordance with the legislation of the Russian Federation and the terms of this Agreement.

6.2. Should the obligations explicitly outlined in this Agreement concerning non-breeding, prohibition of unauthorized transfer, or breeding restrictions be violated, the Parties reserve the right to establish a contractual penalty in the amount of _____ rubles for each proven instance of such violation, provided this is permissible by law. The amount of this penalty may be subject to reduction by a court under the circumstances and procedures stipulated by Article 333 of the Civil Code of the Russian Federation.

6.3. In instances of improper care, cruel treatment, neglect of the Animal, or the emergence of any threat to its life and health, the Parties are obligated to first and foremost take immediate action to resolve the dangerous situation. The Breeder shall have the right to demand that the Animal be transferred voluntarily to the Breeder or to another person agreed upon by the Parties. Should the Owner refuse, such transfer shall be effected solely in the manner provided by the legislation of the Russian Federation; no self-help repossession of the Animal is permitted.

6.4. The provision for the return of the Animal does not automatically imply the Owner's relinquishment of any monetary or other claims that may be afforded to them by imperative legal norms. Likewise, the Breeder does not waive their right to claims for damages as provided by law.

6.5. The death, illness, injury, theft, loss of the Animal, or any alteration to its appearance after transfer, do not inherently constitute grounds for a refund of the purchase price, unless these circumstances are directly caused by a breach of the Breeder's obligations or other reasons stipulated by law.

7. Concluding Provisions

7.1. The Parties commit, whenever possible, to resolve any disagreements through amicable negotiations and the exchange of written notifications. Should an agreement not be reached, the dispute shall be resolved in accordance with the legislation of the Russian Federation. Provisions concerning territorial jurisdiction shall apply only to the extent permitted by law.

7.2. Should consumer protection legislation be applicable to the relationship between the Parties, the provisions of this Agreement shall not limit the consumer's rights as granted by imperative legal norms.

7.3. Correspondence conducted via email and messaging applications may be accepted as evidence of negotiations and notifications, provided it reliably establishes the sender and the content of the message. Any changes to the essential terms of this Agreement must be made in written form and duly signed by both Parties.

7.4. The invalidity of any individual provision within this Agreement shall not render the remaining provisions invalid, unless otherwise stipulated by law.

7.5. This Agreement is drawn up in two copies, each having equal legal force, one for each Party. The Agreement comes into force upon signing, and ownership transfers in accordance with the section on price and transfer of ownership.

7.6. The Parties confirm that prior to signing this Agreement, they have familiarized themselves with its terms, have had the opportunity to ask questions, understand the content of their rights and obligations, and sign this Agreement voluntarily.

9.2. The Owner independently verifies and fulfills the destination country's requirements for animal import: microchipping, rabies vaccination and, if required, antibody titration, veterinary certificate, import permit, quarantine. Related duties, carrier fees, and processing expenses are borne by the Owner, unless otherwise agreed in writing.
